"We, the family, want to honor Harmon as best we can while not exposing other people we love to the continuing Covid-19. Harmon was a man who learned early in life that one of the most important things he could do, other than surrendering his life to Jesus Christ, was to care about people. He spent his entire life caring about and for others. So many people, so many church and community organizations were impacted by his concern and care for them. So, in honor of Harmon Born, and to show your care and concern for others, we ask that you wear a mask during visitation and the funeral service." Visitation will take place in the chapel at Ford-Stewart Funeral Home from 4-6 p.m. Monday, July 20, 2020. Seats at the funeral will be six feet apart with limited capacity in the sanctuary-first come until full. If you prefer, the service will be streamed on the church's Facebook page and you may participate there: The Rock Church-Rex. Anyone who wishes may attend the graveside interment by standing around the fence outside the gravesite, only the family will be inside the fence. Speakers will be set up for all to hear.
