“ I used to work with Bella's grandmother, Earline, at St. Francis Hospital. I wrote the book called 'What Kind of Fish is a Frog?'

It was with great sadness that I heard of the loss of your beautiful child, Bella. Such beautiful flowers have a season then tragically are gone but never to be forgotten. She brightened up her world and also that of others around her. My family sends you love and want you to know our thoughts and continuous prayers are with you.

“ My heart is heavy right now. There are no words that I can say to let you know the depth of my sorrow at the loss of such a precious flower. I cannot say I know how it feels because I have never experienced such a loss. I want you to know that my heart, mind and thoughts are with you in your time of bereavement. We will see Bella again. I love you guys.

“ My thoughts, prayers, sympathy are with your family. I'm rejoicing that she is with the angels now. I know Bella's story from Traci Adams/Davis. What an amazing little girl for the short time we had her. She had the biggest heart and loved to help those less fortunate. I hope you continue her quest for her. Count me in if you do. Rest easy Bella. Your work here is done. Now you earned your beautiful wings and you live with God and the Angels. Fly high and sing loud little one.
